FISHING REPORT

ARCHIVED FISHING REPORTS

APRIL 10, 2012

Young angler Sadie Hoffer holding one of 22 shad caught the first week of April with sister Kaeli and Dad

Spring in Washington has blossomed quickly this year, and along with it some amazing angling along the Potomac River at Fletcher's Cove. As evidence, and in the spirit of "a picture is worth a thousand words," I present several photos of happy anglers displaying their bounty. No need to belabor you with details...just remember that if you are not fishing at Fletcher's, your life is out of balance and you should consult with your doctor, or, more economically, see one of our helpful attendants for corrective action.
